Cork, Cobh & Middleton

Ireland's second City is Cork, where the Lee estuary meets the sea. The city itself straddles two tributaries, offering a very Venetian feel, and more so as features some very impressive Civic Buildings and Georgian facades which all harks back to its great merchant history.

After collecting you at your accommodation we drive southwards to the busy city, where we can catch sight of historic landmarks such as St Finbar's Cathedral, and the English Market, a thriving emporium for foodies and souvenir hunters.

Cork

RMS Titanic

We then travel out of Cork to the picturesque Port town of Cobh, once known as Queenstown. It was here that the Titanic collected its last passengers and provisions embarking on its fateful maiden voyage in April 1912. Here there's time for lunch and an optional visit to the Titanic Experience, based in the original 'White Star Line' Offices, or the nearby Cobh Heritage Centre.

Cobh

Jameson Distillery

By mid-afternoon, we drive the short distance to Middleton, home of the world famous Jameson Distillery. With an option of a guided tour at the Visitors Centre, you can experience the distillery process, and of course shop for memorabilia and the exceptionally rare Middleton Whiskey.

As we make our return journey don't forget to ask your Driver Guide what other opportunities this great County offers before heading back.
